GREECE INVOLVES SEVEN POWERS

(Special from United Press.) on, Nov. 24.-The Greek situation to-day threatens to involve seven powers of much more importance than Greece in trouble. It developed to-day, despite official denials, that the English, French, Russian and Italian governments recently gave the Greek military league, which exercises a virtual tutorship over the Hellenic kingdom, to understand that they will interfere to protect King George if the league threatens to overthrow his dynasty.

kingdom, to understand that they will interfere to protect King George if the league threatens to overthrow his dynasty.

This action evidently offended Germany and Austria for an intimation, was immediately sent out from Vienna and Berlin to the four powers that no interference in Greece must be undertaken without consultation with Kaisers Wilhelm and Franz Joseph. This too is denied but it is certain that there has been a rapid exchange of notes between the six capitols ever since. There is the highest authority for the statement that the dispute has grown more and more aerimonious and that no agreement is in sight.

Germany and Austria are jealous of the strength of the other powers in Greece and they do not propose to step out of the situation. The piedges of support given King George do not mean that he may not abdicate, as he has repeatedly threatened to do, but does not intend to have him expelled in disgrace by the league.

Connecticut Company Settles Three Suits

suits for injuries against the Connecticut company which were assigned for trial in the superior court have been settled by the Jompany. The first was that of Mrs. Bridget Birmingham, who in January, 1909, when getting on a car of the defendant company at the corner of Caribile and Salem streets, this city, had her thigh and right arm injured by the car's starting before she had fully boarded the car.

Another case sattled New Haven, Nov. 24.—Three damage

Another case settled was that of Mrs. Elizabeth Klernas, who was thrown off her seat in a car which was derailed, also last January, in Ansonia, running down hill at a fast

The third case settled was that of Levis Opotaner, of Seymour, whose team was struck by a car of the Con-necticut company last February,

There Sites Chosen By State Commission

At a meeting of the state auti-tuber-culosis commission yesterday a tract-of land of about 30 acres, situated on Cedar mountain, in Newington, near Hartford, was decided upon for the site of the Hartford county sanitori-um. The consideration for this land is $3,500, and now belongs to the estate of the late Dr. George W. Russell, of Hartford.

of the late Dr. George W. Russell, of Hartford.

The location of the site decided upon is stated by the committee as most convenient, being only four miles and a half from the Capitol, and easily accessible. The outlook is said to be the finest to be found anywhere in the state. There are no improvements at present on the land, and shacks for the patients, administrative buildings and quarters for dectors and nurses will have to be built. Work will be started immediately, however, plans being already prepared.

With the acquisition of this property, the sanitarium sites for New Haven and Fairfield couptles having been already purchased, all three counties are provided with sanitarium sites.

When The

Working Property, Because There Is Wind In It, Use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets to Set It Going Again A Trial Box Free

THE DOCTORS call it flatniency, but unprofessional folks know it as wind on the stomach, and a most distressing state of things it is. It is serious condition of this great motor organ. Always annoying and painful in the extreme, at times often leading to bad and fixtal results. The stomach embarrassed and hampered with wind, cannot take care of its food properly and indigestion follows, and this has a rain too appalling to enumerate. The intire system is implicated—made an active or passive factor in this trouble and life soon becomes a questionable boon.

ALL THIS IS EXPLAINED in 6 ALL THIS IS EXPLAINED in docprobable, how undigested food causes is starved. Plenty of food, you see, but spoilt in preparation and worse than worthless.

A DERANGED STOMACH is the epitome of evil; nothing too bad to emanate from it, but the gas it generates is probably its worst primary effect and the only way to do away with this is to remove the cause. STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS go to the root of this trouble. They attack the gas making foods and render them harmless. Flatulency or wind on the stomsch simply cannot exist where these powerful and wonderworking little tablets are in evidence.

THEY WERE MADE for this very purpose to attack gas making foods and convert them into proper nutriment. This is their province and office. A whole book could be written about them and then not all told that might be told with profit to sufferers from this painful disease, dyspepsia, it would mention the years of patient and expensive experiment in effort to arrive at this result—of failures innumerable and at last success. It would make mention of the different atomach correctives that enter into this tablet and make it faithfully represent all.

STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS are not alone intended for the sick, but well folks as well; for the person who craves hearty foods and wants to eat heartly and run no risk of bad effects, they act like a charm and make eating and digestion a delight and pleasure. They keep the stomach active and energetic and able and willing to do extra work without special labor or effort. Don't forget this. Well people are often neglected but the STUART DYSPEPSIA TABLETS have them in mind.

"Going anywhere in particular?" he inquired. "Let's go up the avenue, then. Everybody will be out."

They walked for some distance.

"He was a most distinguished officer."

"That was too bad; just before the chance for more service," said Orde.
"Army life was incompatible with my mother's temperament," stated Gerald. "Tou are from Redding, of course. My sister is very enthusiastic about the place. You are in business there?"

Ords gave the latter a succinct idea of the sort of operations in which he was interested.

"And you," he said at last—"I suppose you're either a broker or lawyer."

"I am neither," stated Gerald. "I have sufficient income to make business unnecessary. There is plenty to occupy one's time. I have my clubs, my gymnasium, my borse sud my friends. That is my gymnasium," pointing to a building on a side street. "Won't you come in with me? I am due now for my practice."

Then, breaking the stillness with almost startling abruptness, he heard a clear, high voice saying something at the top of the stairs outside. A rhythmical swish of skirts, punctuated by the light pat-pat of a girl tripping downstairs, brought him to his feet. A moment later the curtains parted, and she entered, holding out her hand. He stood holding her hand, suddenly unable to say a word, looking at her bungrily. A flood of emotion, of which he had had no prevision, swelled up within him to fill his throat.

She began to manipulate the coffee pot without paying the slightest attention to Orde's discialmer. The general puffed out his cleeks and coughed a bit in embarrassment.

"A good cup of coffee is never amiss to an old campaigner," he said to Orde. "It's as good as a full meal in a pinch. I remember when I was a major in the Eleventh, down near the City of Mexico, in '48, the time Hardy's command was so nearly wiped out by that viaduct"— He half turned toward Orde, his face lighting up, his fingers reaching for the fork with which, after the custom of old soldiers, to trace the chart of his reminiscences. chart of his reminiscent
